Lights . . . Cameras . . . Construction!

Cinemark USA rolled out the red carpet for local VIPs as they showcased their new 12-screen theater in Mansfield, Texas with a special grand opening on June 28, 2005.

On hand were local dignitaries and representatives from Cinemark, developer Kossman Development Company and general contractor Bob Moore Construction.

After a "film cutting" ceremony guests were invited to enjoy popcorn and cold drinks as they tested out the new facility, and the theater earned rave reviews. The new Cinemark 12 opened to the general public the following day with a full slate of first-run movies.

Cinemark 12 is the first theater in Mansfield, and is expected to be a centerpiece of this dynamic community's expansion. The theater is located in Mansfield Town Center West, a 39-acre shopping complex from Kossman Development Company.

Bob Moore Construction was general contractor for this successful project.
